Dearest Sjorje,

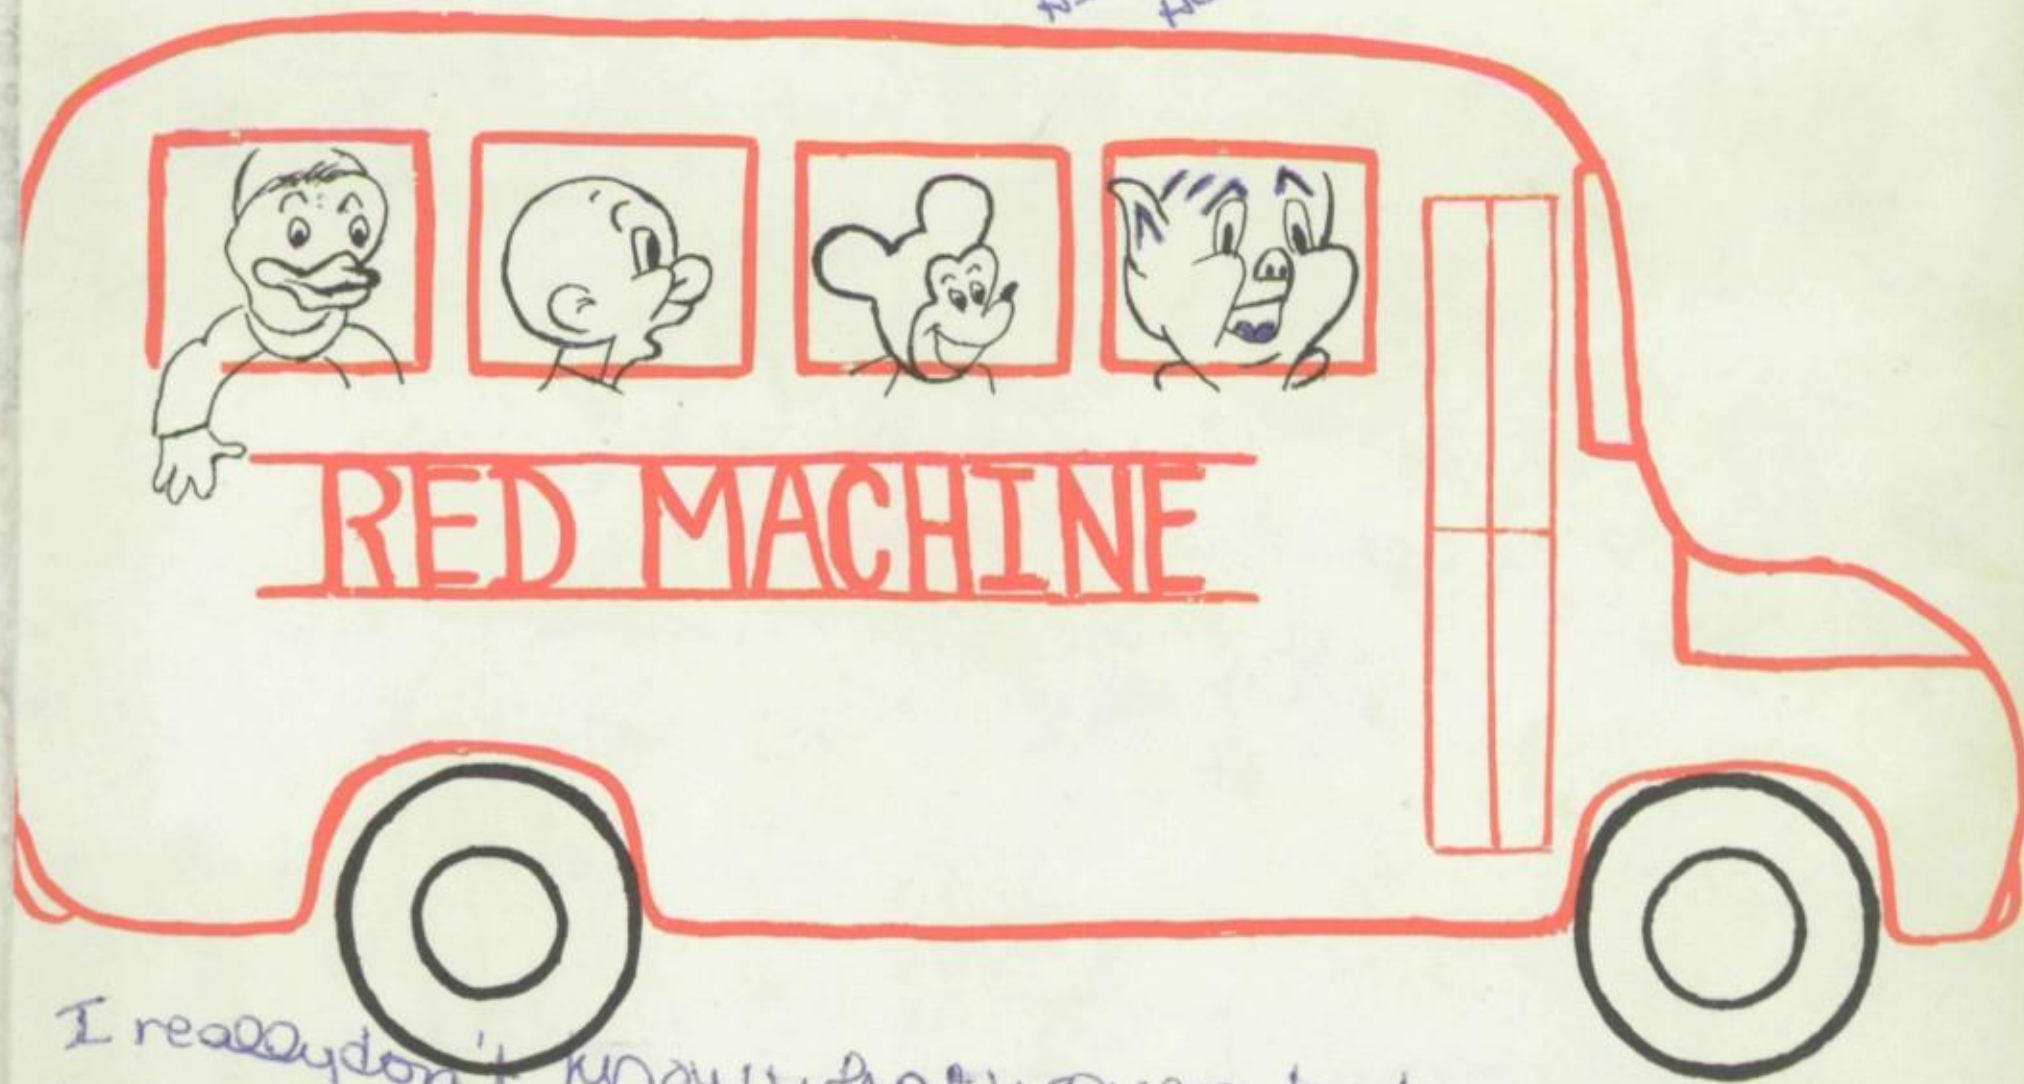

I was going to begin signing your yearbook by reminiscing, but after reading your rather reminiscent letter in my yearbook, I realize this would be somewhat trite. The experiences that the 3 of us have had are truly amazing but more important are the emotions which we have shared. We've done a lot of laughing (perhaps too much) and a little crying. Together we have experienced the worst of Karma and the best. We've incredibly developed a certain sensitivity for each other so that our triangular relationship has become more and more bonding. (not bad bonding, good) I know (as you mentioned) that no matter what happens we will always be together. (After all it's in the cards). Somehow we've managed to overcome together problems which potentially could have blown our relationship to bits. How we did this I will never fully understand. I can only say that we must continue as we have in the past to pull closer and to continuously "iron out" our problems until ~~the we~~ we have finished our ironing. I cannot explain really how much you have added to the lives of me and Mi. ~~END~~

Dwange,
Hi you,
and Mellow,
John.

Dear George,
I think we've learned a lot about each other - this year.
I don't think I'll ever forget your sense of humor (sometimes stolen - but Jim won't laugh at me) I know I'll see you next year, so this isn't a goodbye. Remember Forensics, Analysis, History, Chemistry? Next year add English!
Have a nice summer!
Your friend,
Peter

I really don't know what would be happening if you weren't around. Every word in my vocabulary would probably be different. Wouldn't it be unreal?
I don't know what else I can say but that each of us would not be ourselves to day without each other. Let us continue to be 3/3 forever.
Your sister,

Cathy

George -
I'm not going to write a book, I'm just going to remind you of stuff (This will be a repeat for Nancy B. when she reads it the remember Forensics and all the Tournaments, the his nads, etc.
I hope we have as much fun next year but I know we won't (you're going too far away from me) I'll always love you even if you don't want me.

Judy.

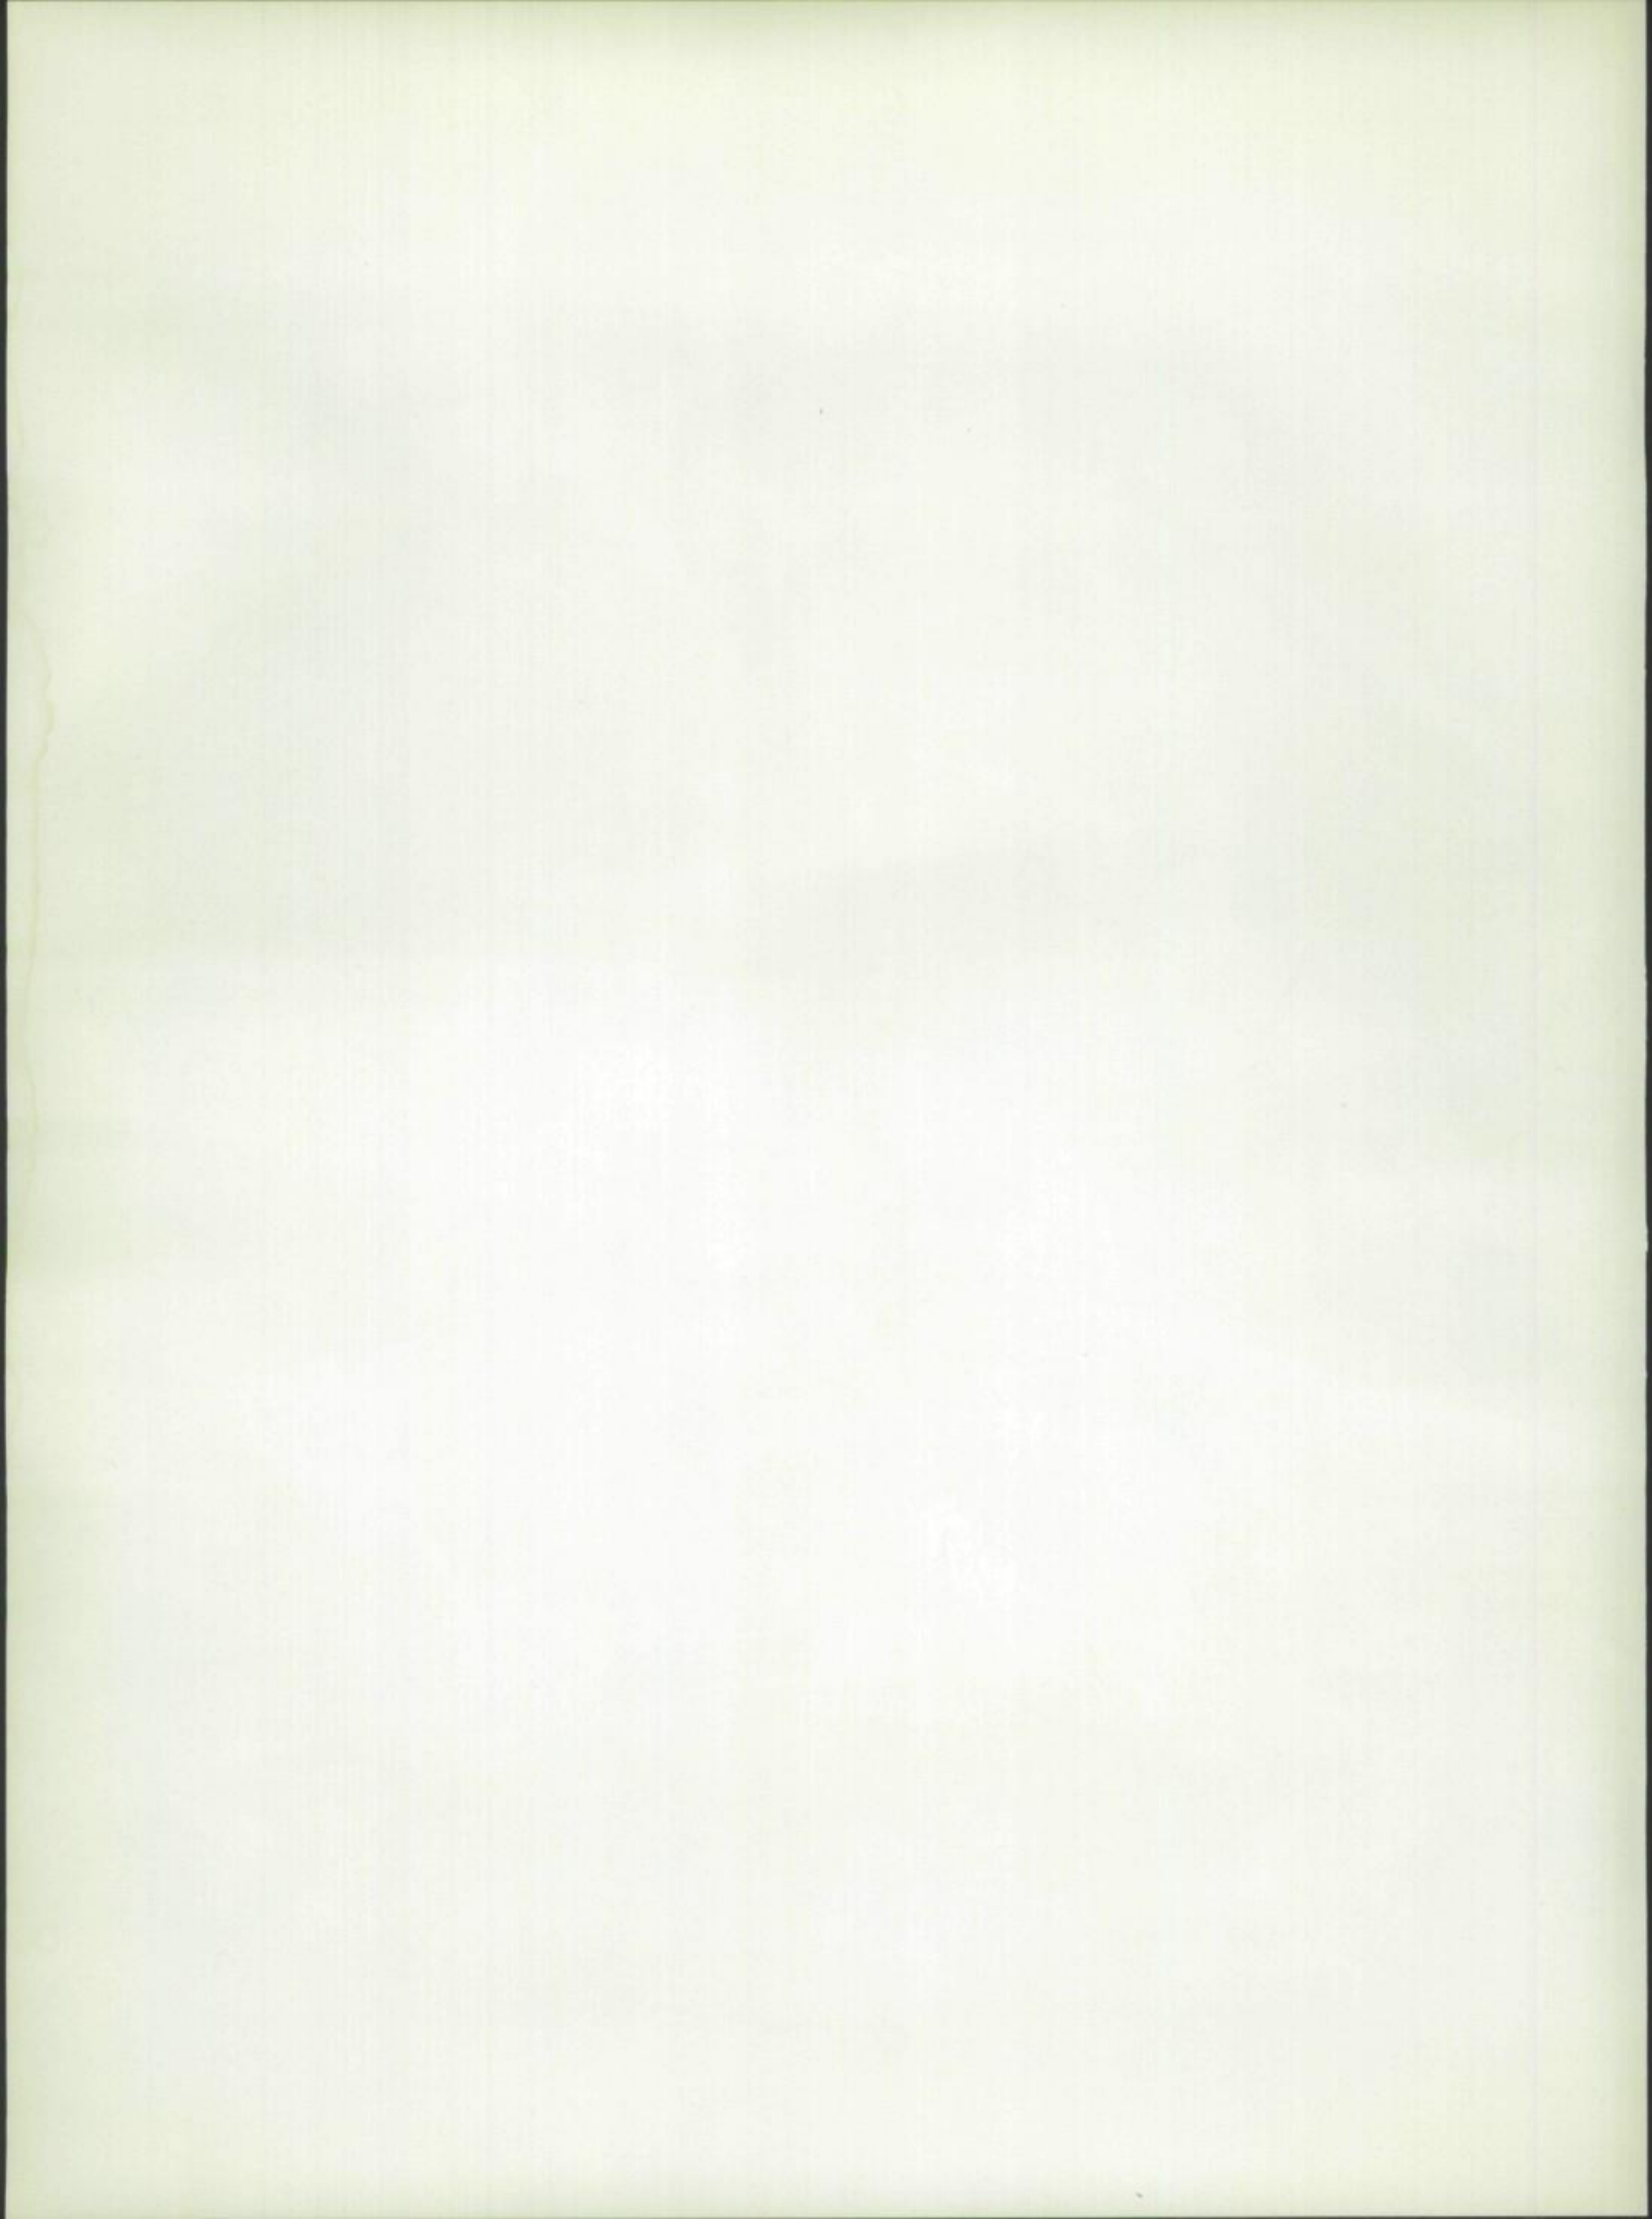

Dear George,

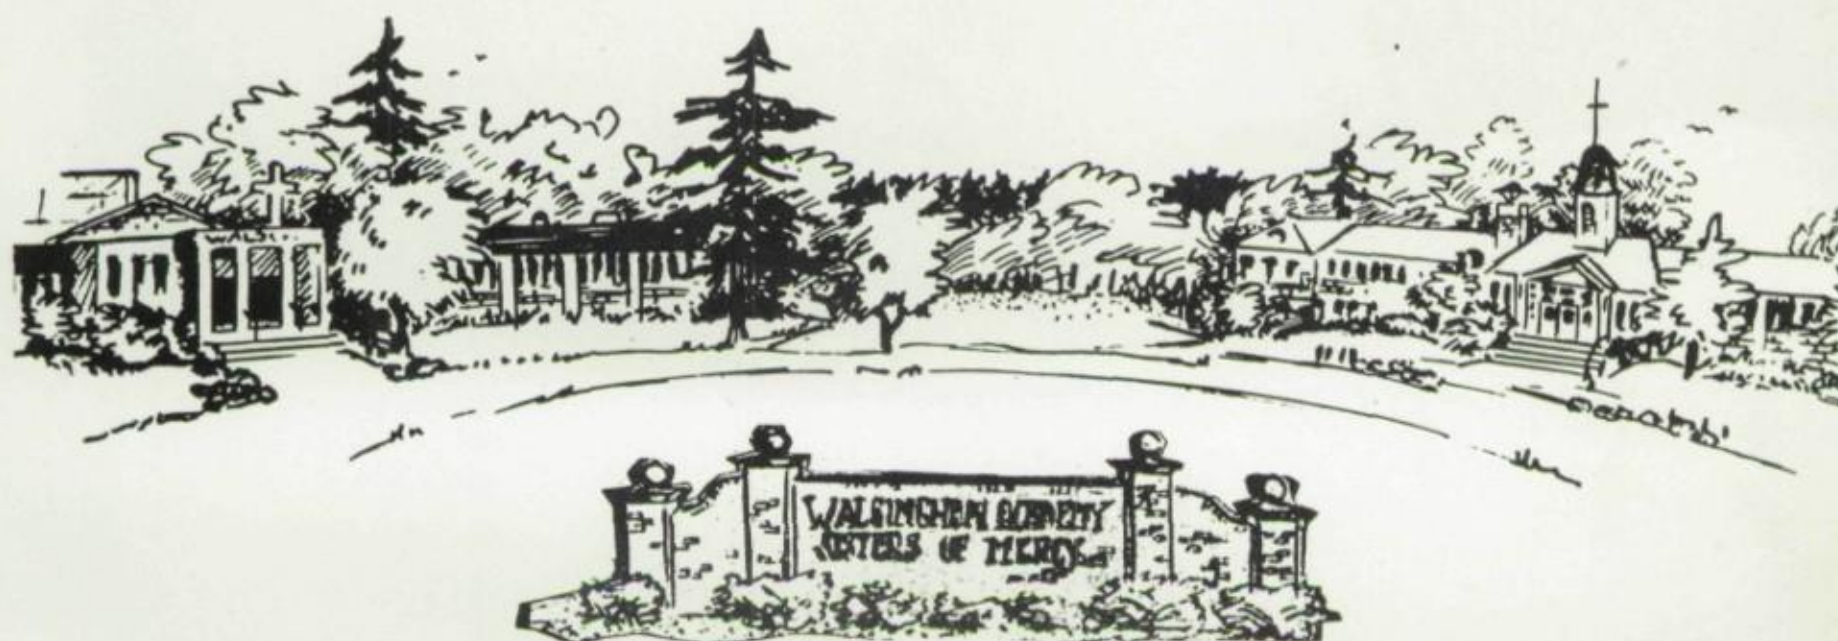

I'm really glad I ~~can~~ had the chance to know you better this year. I never could understand you last year, so I got frustrated and quit trying. But this year, I really liked it when you were more serious. I appreciated you talking to me after the election ~~when~~ made me feel better. I didn't realize you were so smart also. I know you will be successful in life, whatever you do and wherever you go. Keep in touch,

I hope you have a great summer.

Love,
Barbara

Dear George,

Thank you for being a friend and confidant.
I wish you the best of luck always wherever you go. Most of all thank you for being — a friend. Kathleen

FACULTY

George,

This has been some year! Very frantic. It's a good thing our world newspaper was successful. Love that composition class, huh? Lay off those Dutch candies during English class. They damage your brain. Remember, "Deliver us some evil".

CLASS
-75-

We sometimes forget that the person on the other side of the desk was a student once too. Teachers don't just mean tests and marks, they mean developing, helping and giving. The faculty and administration have their dreams too — dreams of being all they can be for each of us at Walsingham. There is a child and a student in each teacher — learning and teaching at one and the same time.

Teachers dream of giving more to each student to help us to become better prepared to meet the challenges of life. Sometimes we can't accept all they have to offer and sometimes we don't know why we should. Perhaps tomorrow will be the best answer for today's questions.

Our teachers are special. Some ride bikes to school, or dress up for the Halloween party and all have an unselfish interest in every student — showing us what it means to truly teach. They have their dreams for us. Now we must use all that they have given us and make those dreams come true.

George,

Well, like you said, I couldn't have gone through this year without you! Have fun this summer and in London, and see you next year.

Love,

Luck, and Laughter!

STUDENT LIFE

As memories of summertime lingered in the minds of students, the first few days of school began. Summer jobs, that "Special someone" and long evening walks were replaced by rosters, new classes and homework. Adjustment to a modular, fluctuating schedule was assumed by the administration, so this year the most often heard cry was not "What mod is it?", but "What DAY is it?" Once we realized that a Friday schedule did not always fall on Friday, but more often on Monday or Tuesday, we settled into serious work.

A whole new atmosphere, which could best be described as "involved" and "spirited" seemed to pervade W.A. This spirit was shown from Sr. Josephine, who was known to sing solos at pep rallies, to the Eighth Grade, even though they found themselves "low men on the totem pole" for the second year in a row. The athletic seasons brought us together, as did the dances, the Halloween party and the practices and presentation of the Christmas Concert. Key Club projects, archeological digs, SWT visits to Dunbar and The Pines, recycling efforts, Spirit Day, the Talent Show, Spring Musicale, Antique Show and "Harvey" all involved a large portion of the student body. Doing all of this helped us to grow and to learn to "whistle while we work."

There were also times, "on a golden afternoon" or while watching a quiet snowfall, that we had the opportunity to share fun, thoughts, or prayers with others. On Days of Recollection we had the chance to put things all together; we had the time to be "in our own little corner." Seniors chalked up the days 'till graduation, all the while just a little wary of what the future holds.

Our world here at W.A. is one of laughter and tears, of overtime basketball games and weekly prayer meetings, of hard, serious work and fantasy, of beginnings and endings. It is a world where time seems endless — and so does the homework — but where the weeks and months seem to pass too quickly. Welcome to our world . . .

Dear George (Sjorjie); Strange how this picture looks like you and I when we dance. I'm glad I got to know you this year and you made me think much more of myself and you always made my day. I hope you get your head straightened out - and remember I'll be waiting! Remember all our long discussions and all the times in the girl's infirmary.
 I'll think of you alot and call me during the summer if you can and I'll always love you very much. Yours Julie

The 1974 staff is very proud to present this year's Legende.

Our thanks to:

Mr. Rapone and Martha DeBord for their photographic contributions.

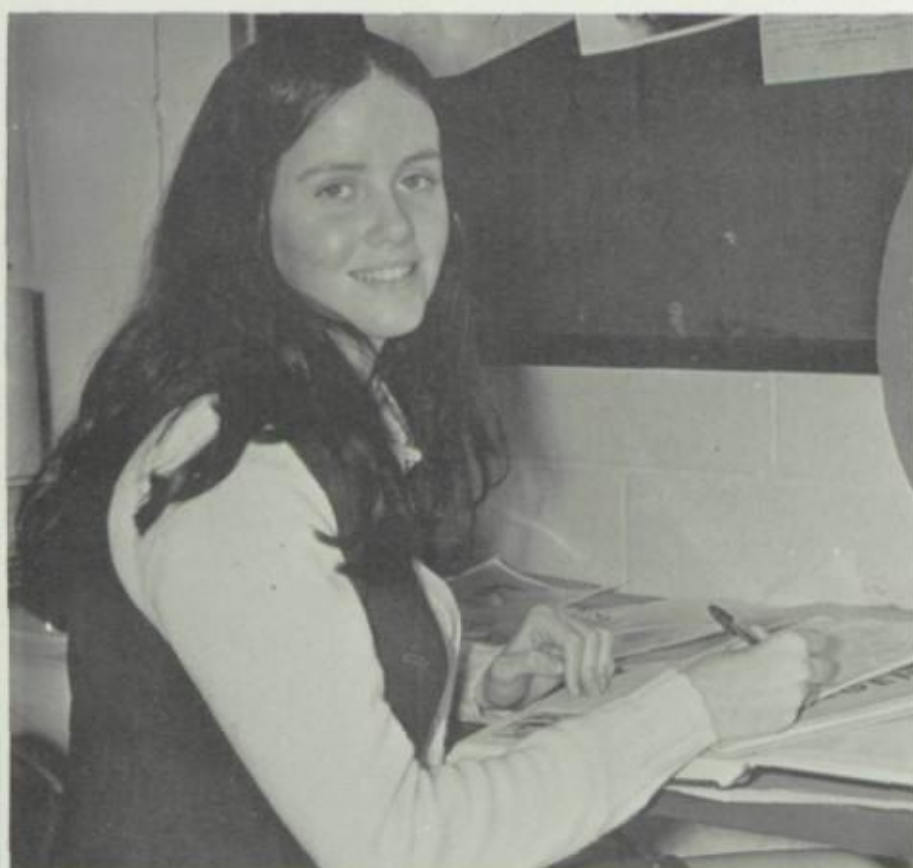

Danny DeFalco for his patience and friendly advice.

Doc and B.J. for their faithful assistance.

Leo Moore and Wilson Moore for their excellent photography.

And extra special thanks to our devoted and patient leader — Sister Janet Marie — without whom we couldn't have survived! Our love and thanks, Sister.

The 1974 Legende means hectic deadlines, J.D. and the pink elephant, the Halloween party, listening to Neil Diamond until two in the morning, watching sunrises, Polaroid pictures, laughing over could-be captions, crunching potato chips by the 3 pound box, eyes glued to Melissa's TV, tears of frustration, rushing to Sister Janet for "words of wisdom," plans for pajama parties at the convent, mix-up on deadline dates, frantic requests rushed to the dark room, so many good ideas and not enough time, Winnie the Pooh overlooking the general chaos, 18 people fighting for our one and only cropper, Debbie's strange captions, hating and loving every minute of it and . . . that beautiful final deadline!

UNDERCLASSMEN

It was the night before Christmas and all through the house, Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer, snowflakes and Santa Claus, presents and happy memories — wasn't it just a few minutes ago that we slept with one eye open and waited for the signal to reach under the Christmas tree and open up the gifts that were wrapped in love?

Now we're getting older, we have scraped our knees, we have had to dry our tears alone, we sometimes face the future with fear. And in the midst of all these new experiences, the child in all of us invites us back to visit the Wizard of Oz, to hope that Cinderella finds her shoe, to laugh at Dopey.

It's easy to forget, but it's so hard to let go. So wouldn't it be better to remember and hold on to all those things that peopled our lives when we were very small, yet very open?

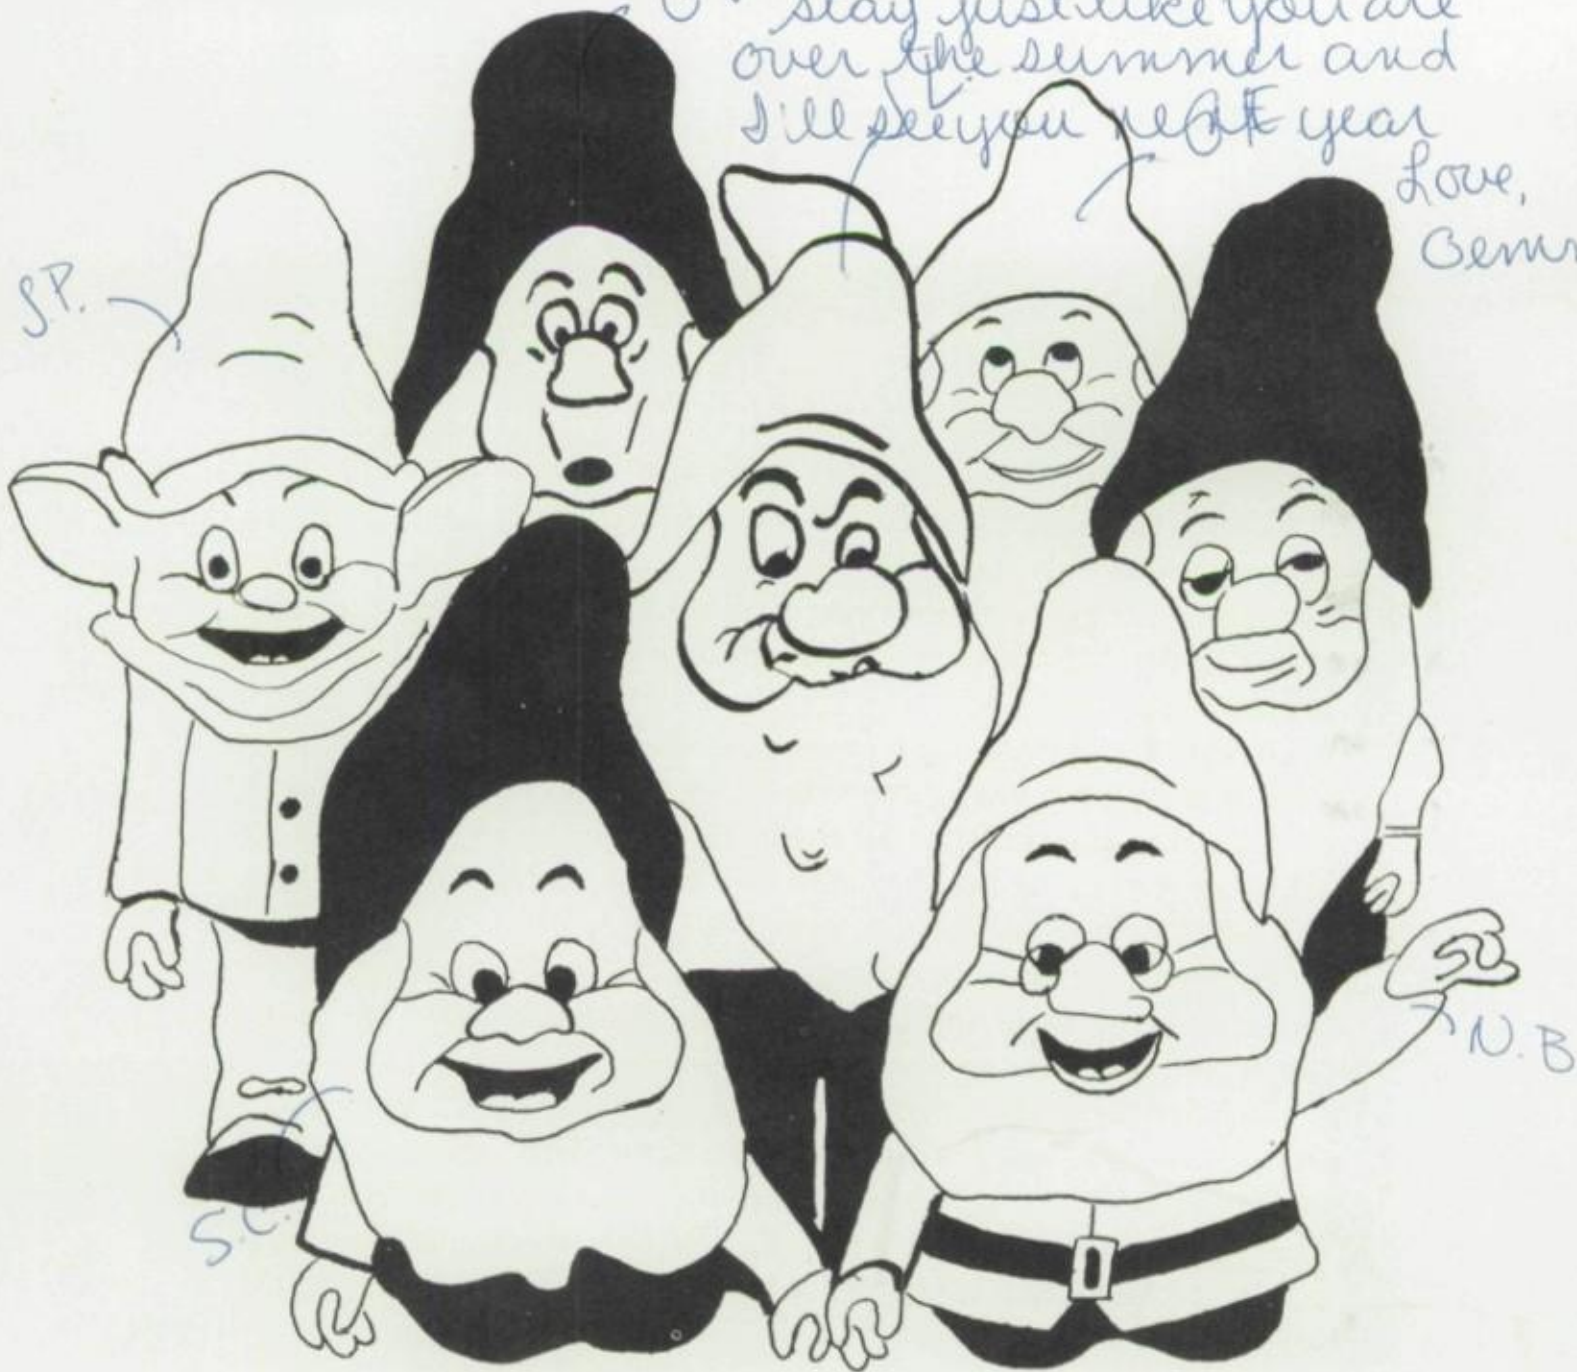

Growing up does not mean growing out of touch with those things we love so much. It means being yourself in a world that's trying its best to make you someone else. Yes, we have our Linus blankets and we still like Winnie the Pooh. Does that really mean we're immature? No, it means we're still alive to the joy that used to be.

Dear George,

The picture that appears below (v) looks just like one of our forensics team. I hope we have as much fun next year with all of the gold gang around.

Stay just like you are over the summer and I'll see you next year

Gemma

ORGANIZATIONS

Through the organizations W. A. provides, students are able to develop their interests and talents. The S.W.T., Key Club and S. C. A. are clubs which play a great part in both school and community life. Other organizations such as Legende, Drama Club, Spanish Club and Chess Club all develop unique abilities in each one of us. Being a part of these organizations means many hours of sacrifice, hard work, and good times. When we bring our talents and involvement to others it gives us a sense of commitment which is the major goal of an organization.

Dear George,
I really think you're a really great person and I just wish I could have gotten to know you better - some day you're going to have to explain all that philosophy stuff to me because I would never have the patience to read it all for myself. I really do admire you a lot because you're ~~so~~ so smart and also because you have such a great personality. I want you to know that many times when I was feeling really bad you made me feel better - I just hope you never get too sad because you're too great of a person to do that. I really do hope that I get to know you better next year and just think we'll be seniors! I hope to see you over the summer and please take care of yourself

Love
Frances

SPORTS

We can't all be great sports heroes. For each of the Peles, Ryuns, Mark Spitzs and Billie Jean Kings, there are a million others who dream of such greatness. In our dreams we are free to be our own secret star — making the winning goal, scoring the basket at the buzzer, winning the championship.

Our dream and fantasy lives can inspire us to new heights, to new achievements and bigger goals. Not so long ago we only dreamed about winning our varsity letters, cheering our teams to victory and fulfilling our personal expectations. Now these things have come true and there are new dreams and expectations waiting to be dreamed. To live up to our own expectations is our greatest challenge and indeed our greatest accomplishment.

Each day is a unique new challenge, demanding that we give all that we are. Each day is a sporting event designed to help us develop ourselves, not only as athletes but as people. The twisting, hard fought layup, the final lunge at the tape, and the agony of having to get up and try again — these are the ingredients of success in sports and in life.

In school we each dreamed of greatness. We practiced, and we cheered and we worked together to become all we are capable of being. We are each a bit of the hero if we have come to know our own selves and what we are capable of doing and being in sports and in life.

Hey, George!

This year was a relatively good one, though of course we all missed you in French class. I know that you'll be famous for your marvelous "literary technique" next year, as we both had the same excellent Comp teacher.

Have a good summer,
Brother

George,
It's been a quick year, but one that will be very full of memories. I've had so many good talks with you that I wish in a way we had more time to get to know each other. But next year will bring new friends to both of us, and new adventures. I hope that your senior year is as memorable as mine. Good luck with your forensics ^(SP?) always! I'd like to thank you George, for brightening up all those gloomy days, I'm

SENIORS

Really going to miss you next year! Have fun in Europe this summer. Hopefully I can see you again before I go away to college, but if not, I wish you the best of luck and I hope all your days are full of smiles and sunshine.

Love always, I love you, too!
Carol

P.S. Make sure you write me at school next year and tell me when or if you make a Christian Awakening. OK?!

14545 - B - Old Courthouse Way, Newport News, Va. 23602

For eleven years each of us has been striving for the major goal, one where we would receive all the corresponding honor and credits of being a senior. Our senior year, of 1973-74, has not only been filled with hectic times but also moments of solitude. This year can be termed unique in that we created and experienced many "firsts" for Walsingham seniors. We are a spirited and united class, able to fulfill our dreams and from them develop reality.

In September, there was the Get Acquainted Dance sponsored by the seniors. Lots of laughs came when the senior girls tried to learn the "funky chicken." In December, the class got together at Lisa Lewis' for a cocktail party. Other unique experiences include the class picture, with only one camera shy, and Senior Night which was given on Valentine's Day. Each member of the class was given a "door prize" and a special cheer done by the senior cheerleaders. Spirit week for the State Basketball Tournament brought about more "firsts." Seniors were seen wearing banana craze earrings, stickers, and even banana peels!

Being a senior of the 1973-74 class was a fulfillment of our childhood dreams and fantasies. These childhood dreams and our happy-sad senior year days, will serve as a foundation on which to build our dreams of tomorrow.

I have writing in yearbooks and when I think that this is the last year, I breathe a sigh of relief and I cry a little. George, how do I explain the deep friendship we've cultivated over the years. Some people say "Familiarity breeds contempt," but I think we've broken the rule there. I've mentioned it a couple of times to you, but I am surprised that we get along so well. I suppose it's because I love you, and I think you love me too, as a friend. And friendship, without the extra strain placed by a physical relationship, is about the closest bond any two people can have. Maybe someday I'll think differently - after I find someone very very special. But for now, you know that you're a very very very wonderful person to me. You can put up with me - my good moods and bad - and I can accept you as you are, without needing to or even wanting to change you (Even if I do act like your mother). This poem is from my Sr. Day of Recollection - I hope you like it as I do:

I love being with you

It's the happiest part of my life...

sometimes I wonder what I used to do before you came along... and changed the color and feeling of ordinary things

I used to think the world was a cold, hard place... but you helped me to stop every now and then just to smell the flowers...

you made me dream beautiful dreams and enjoy rainy days as well as sunshine best of all... with you I discovered something new and wonderful unloneliness!

I found that even when you're not in my arms you're in my thoughts and that when we're together, I can count on you to listen to understand and to make happy times happier.

I know that when things aren't going right you'll always be there to take care of me
and let me take care of you no wonder I cherish you and always will I know now, my whole purpose for being is to love you... to be there when you need me and to bring happiness into your life... how am I doing so far?

for all the good times, bad times, and mediocre times, George-pra,

Love,

Nancy

[Nans-pans, Nan-gra, etc.]

P.S. Sorry as the above sounds, you can keep from getting a swelled head by remembering that I still refuse to join your harem, you lady-killer, you! If I had to join anybody's harem, which I wouldn't do in the first place, I think you know where I'd join - Ah ha!
Just kidding

Dear George,

what can I say? my eyes are tear-filled from just reading the beauty that others have written to you, I assume I can never measure up. But what I have to say to you is not ADS going to be a lot of stuff about what we have done or a lot of propositions of what we will do, it is just to say that you are one of the most genuine, expertly sincere people persons I have ever had the pleasure to come in contact with. Being you has by far been the best I could have ever been blessed to experience. maybe saying "hid you Karma's head you" or "God's will be done" is just a cop out to escape from the realization that you are going to have a future. I just wish I could give you the strength to do what you want to do and not anybody else but more than that I wish I could give you the strength to find out what you want, well you have a true heart, a duo there and a couple more that's stuck away some where else who saying something about being 1/3 would be true and noticeable in your life. I am only glad that Did you ever dream of having a million dollars? Did you ever fantasize about being able to buy anything you wanted? Did you ever imagine yourself driving around in a different new car every day, practically throwing your money away?

Dreams don't cost anything, but yearbooks do for sure. We dreamed about money too, and our patrons and advertisers made our dreams and our yearbook come true. Thank you.

I can realize that. I hope to live out my life arm and arm with you, experiencing the law of cause and effect with you but most of all loving with you. As far as my goals my (our) love for her is equally shared and I know our futures has been layed out.
I have learned alot from you and I have lost alot of myself by finding the real George. Even all of the hurt I have been thru and am sure to go thru I can never be surmounted by the love I have learned to experience.
I could say we should be together but that wouldn't help much but I can say I would like to be with you from know until eternity I cry when I think that at one time we had you" all to ourselves" and that it was by our pushing that you asked to other. But I have come to realize that that is a very selfish attitude and I should be glad I have something as good as you to share with other my attitude may seem harsh and insincere towards you but that is only to shield myself from the pain which I am afraid I will one day be experiencing when I (we) go and you decide to stay

But that's all right after all pain is just transitory isn't it but then so is out love?
How can I end but

Dear George, Well, here we are again, almost ready to take off for the summer. A lot has happened this year. It seems like the year is just beginning, like we just got out of the sophomore class and into the fr. class. But we're getting out of the junior class and into the Senior. Do you realize what that means? Next year will be our last year in high school. Our last year watching basketball games, stupid Christmas musicales, dramaplays, getting homework in late, listening to hysterical teachers and angry parents. Then after that, one blessed summer of rest and harmony with self. That summer we must find ourselves as well as learn to find others. That summer will, for the most part, determine what our lives will be like for the rest of our stay upon this earth. Then after that summer we will begin on an adventure, like beginning life again, from which we will never return. Our maturity rate will increase faster than ever before, and it will never stop. Time will fly, but it will seem like forever to reach a socially acceptable mature age. Shall we be dragged into the rat-race of capitalistic commercialism of life? Or shall we light a lantern to illuminate the footsteps of Jesus, that we may ~~daily~~ daily follow closely to his warm and everlasting love. If we choose the first, will not our reward be what we live? If we live materialistically then we shall receive material as our reward and die by materialism. If we choose the second, then we shall live by love, receive love, and never die. Our entire lives stand open and empty before us. If our life is to be full, we must fill it.

If our lives turn out sad and lost, it is our own fault.
But we will take a moment now to think of the past.
Of our ups (natural, not plastic) and our downs; of our good times and our bad. A year and a half ago, in this building, in room 106 I chose a locker and it was next to yours. God brought us together, only God can separate us. That concert was really great, wasn't it.
This summer we will be playing half a world away. So you'd better write.

Should we (Mike, you, myself) all run away from home to live in poverty and spread Jesus' love all over the country. Or maybe we should all become nuns. Pray about it.

Other times I've wondered, that maybe, since we are so crazy, that maybe we aren't really ~~here~~ except to fill these shells. That if we opened our minds we could really be released to roam free. To be rid of emotion, pain, heart-break. Wow, but then there would be no love, either. That would be heart-break.

Must go

I love you,

Agnes

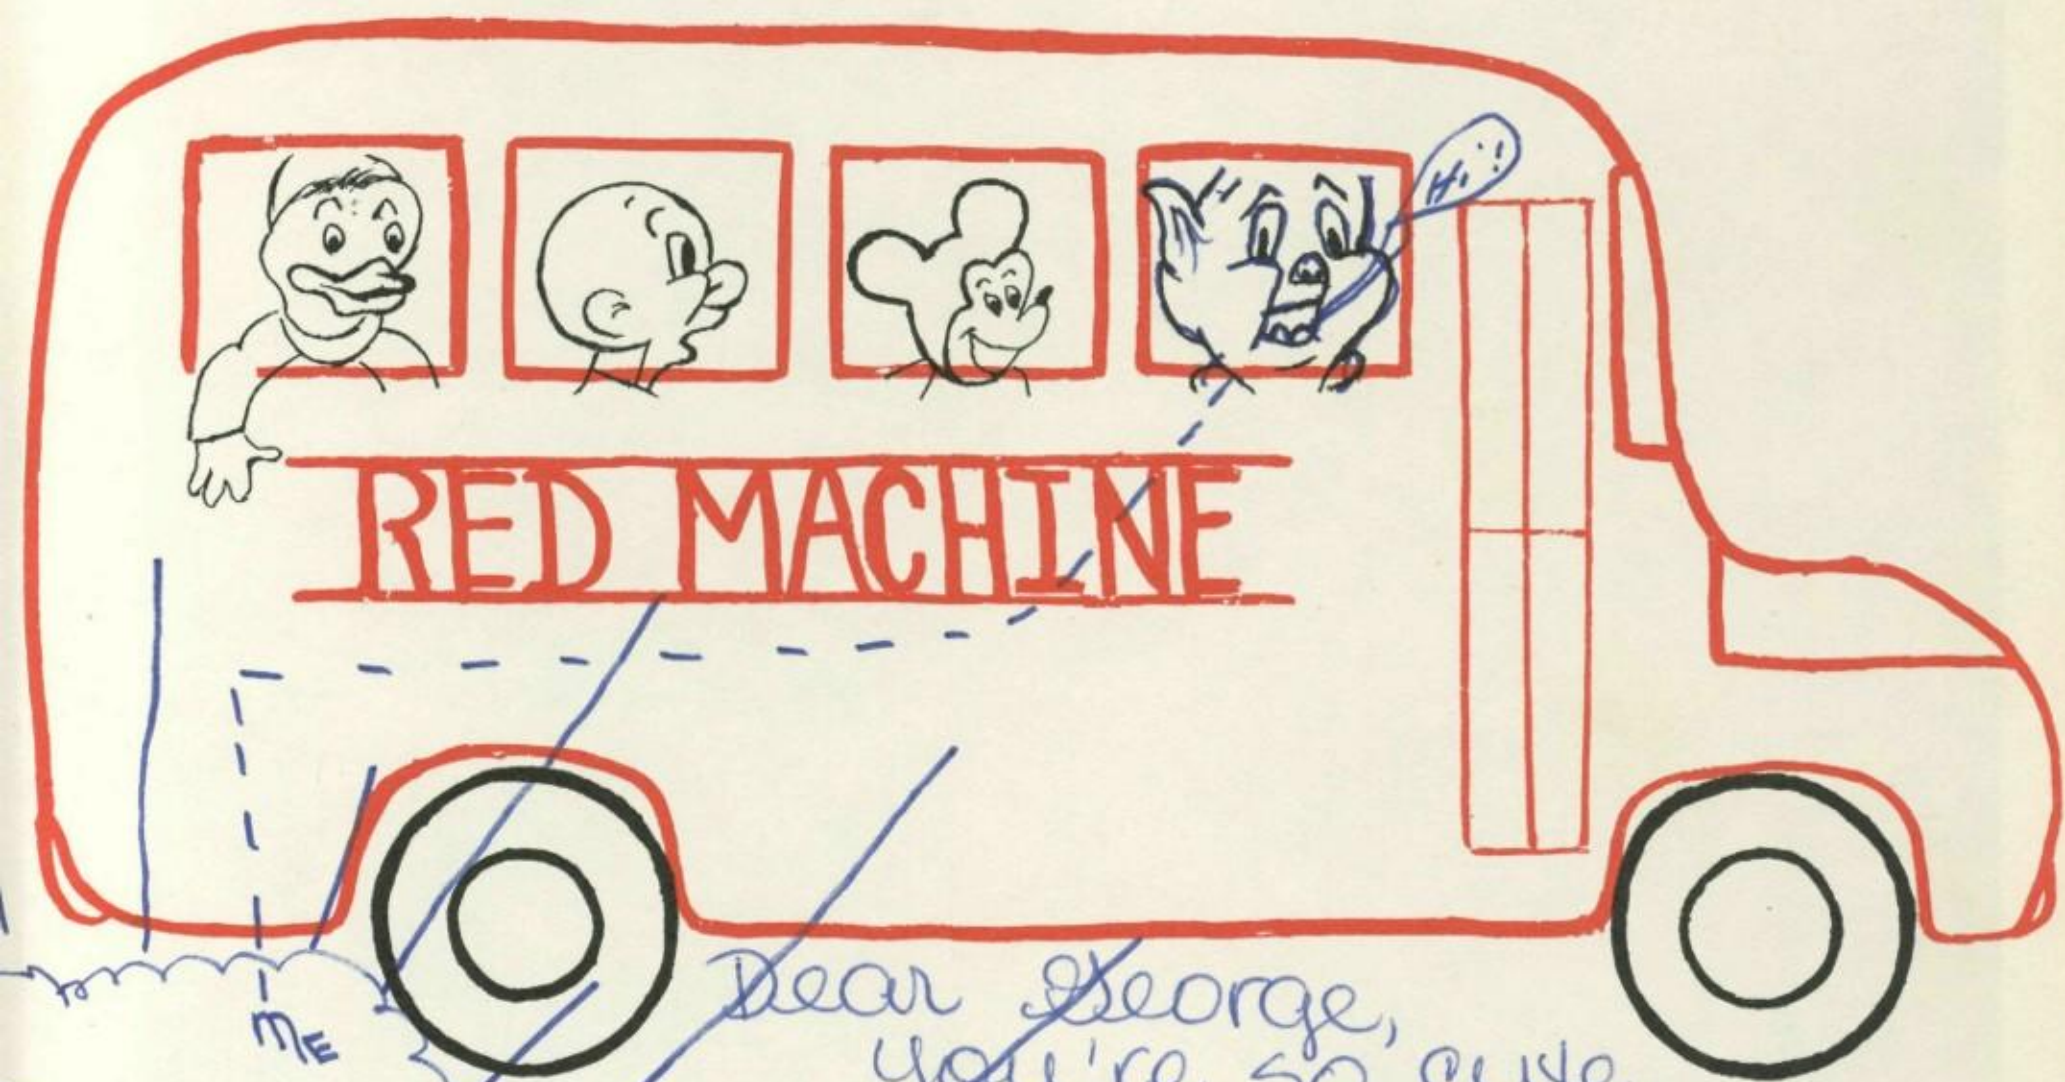

George -
 What can I say to someone as mean,
 and funny as you??
 Well I'm glad you were in some of my classes this year because you've really brightened them up. Have a good summer!
Be Good

Sarah

George,

You are a very sweet and kind person. You are funny and I love you stay nice, have a great time in Europe & don't forget to write me.

 DEAR GEORGE,
 Hi, Boy HAVE WE HAD
 some good times!
 No, Huh, well we will have to have some and change your triangular relationship D.L. and CAT CAT to a Rectangular Relationship, Don P. L. Church Jr.

Dear George,
 you're so cute and crazy and I've really enjoyed knowing you this year. Don't forget our talk on Easter day.
 Have a great summer
 see ya next year,
 Love, Ann
